What is John Hancock Aspire?

- The first and only life insurance solution designed specifically for people living with diabetes.
- Launched with Onduo, a joint venture by Verily Life Sciences (an Alphabet company) and Sanofi.
- John Hancock Aspire is providing people living with diabetes the protection of life insurance along with a tech-enabled, personalized wellness program that provides education, support, incentives, and rewards designed to help them manage and improve their health.

How John Hancock Aspire works

All Aspire members have access to John Hancock Vitality and the opportunity to earn Vitality Points and rewards, including up to 25% off their insurance premium, by proactively improving and/or managing their condition through exercise, buying healthy groceries, meditating and more.⁴

Qualifying customers with type 2 diabetes can join Onduo and receive a blood glucose monitoring device which provides real-time insights into their diabetes management.

Onduo also offers a personalized care team to offer expertise and resources to fill the support gap between doctor's visits.

"It's time our industry started delivering more personalized solutions that truly help our customers and for us, this is just the beginning."
