We're with You Every Step of the Way

From finding new clients to being there when a client goes on claim and every step in between, we provide sales and marketing materials that will lead you to the ultimate destination — a successful LTCi business.

Our sales and marketing materials are created based on extensive market research conducted with LTCi buyers and non-buyers. Throw in an award-winning creative team and you've got tools guaranteed to capture the attention of prospective clients and win the sale.

Before You Start: Understand the Need

According to the U.S. Department of Health & Human Services, 70% of people who reach age 65 will need long-term care services at some point in their lives. That means you should be talking with your clients about the importance of adding an LTCi policy to their retirement plan.

An LTCi policy can help your clients:

- Protect their retirement assets — Having funds available to help pay for LTC services means they can preserve their retirement assets.
- Maintain their independence — An LTCi policy allows them to get the care they need in the setting that's right for them ... even in the comfort of their own homes.
- Control their finances and their future — With LTCi, they have the power to make decisions about their care.

Step 1: Learn the Product

Now that you know why your clients need it, we can help you get up to speed quickly with a variety of producer training materials.

Step 2: Find People to Talk to

Our research shows that people who don't own an LTCi policy often wonder why no one has approached them about it. This tells us they expect to be contacted by an insurance agent. Yet, less than 1 in 100 policyholders said they first learned about LTCi from an agent.

Marketing Tools

We compiled our research into a handy guide to help you learn more about the people you should be targeting and how you can turn their needs and concerns into sales.

Hearts & Minds Brochure

Provides a profile of the typical LTCi buyer and includes information about why some people buy and others don't.

Good Places to Find Prospective Clients

- Current clients — You already have a built-in pool of prospective clients. Just search your current client base for people who fit the profile of the typical LTCi buyer.
- Centers of influence — Partner with accountants and attorneys in your area. This mutually beneficial arrangement allows them to recommend you to their clients. And in turn, you recommend these professionals to your clients who may need legal or accounting services.
- Civic organizations — Join your local civic organizations and make yourself known to the members of your community. Offer your services as a speaker at an upcoming meeting.
- Associations — Don't forget about the affinity you share with members of associations to which you belong. Place ads in association newsletters and offer to speak to the membership on this important topic.
- Referrals — Talk to everyone you know — family members, friends, neighbors, clients. Ask if they know someone who could benefit from the service you provide.

Step 3: Address the Need

Before you offer a solution, you need to understand what's keeping your clients up at night. Research tells us these are their primary concerns:

- They're concerned about protecting their retirement nest egg from the high cost of care.
- They don't want to go to a nursing home and plan to stay at home as long as possible.
- They want to avoid relying on their family for help.

Marketing Tools

We provide a variety of tools you can use to begin a discussion with clients about their concerns and the need for LTC planning.

Tips for Completing the Application

- Use the correct application and forms. Remember you must use the application for the client's state of residence.
- Answer all questions and complete all necessary forms. If something doesn't apply, do not use N/A. Instead, write "no" or "none."
- If a question is answered in error, do not use white out. Instead, draw a single line through the error and have the applicant initial the correction.
- Include a cover letter. The more you can tell us about the client, the greater the chance for a favorable underwriting outcome.
- Include a copy of the applicant's quote.
- Indicate the best time to contact the applicant for the personal health interview.
- Include your contact information so we can reach you if we have questions or need more information.
